KCA Announces New Executive Director

Central PA Native, Jon O'Brien, Returns Home for KCA Position

Harrisburg, PA – The Keystone Contractors Association (KCA) Board of Directors unanimously approved new leadership for the association. Jon O'Brien joined the KCA during October of this year as the incoming Executive Director. To assure there is a smooth transfer of leadership, there will be a transition period for the remainder of the year from outgoing Executive Director Terry McDonough to Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. O'Brien brings with him over 10 years of commercial construction association experience. Prior to joining the KCA, he was the Director of Industry Relations for the Master Builders' Association of Western Pennsylvania (MBA). While at the MBA, Mr. O'Brien nearly doubled the size of the membership, launched new educational initiatives for career development, and formed coalitions to position the MBA for success.

A graduate from the University of Pittsburgh and a United States Navy Veteran, Mr. O'Brien grew up in central Pennsylvania and graduated from Mechanicsburg High School in 1994. "I am excited to work with the members of the KCA," said Mr. O'Brien. "I have a vision for the future of the KCA and I am bursting at the seams to implement many new initiatives."

"We couldn't be happier to have Jon O'Brien join us to lead the KCA. Jon brings fresh ideas to the KCA from his similar experience with the contractors association in the Pittsburgh area. The future looks bright for the KCA and I'm looking forward to KCA's impact in the construction industry with Jon at the help," said Rick Seitz, President of Alexander Building Construction Company and KCA Executive Director Search Committee Chairman.
